Postdoctoral Research Fellow
ADVANCE Program, U-M

Position Summary

The ADVANCE Program at the University of Michigan is inviting applications for a postdoctoral research fellow in Faculty Development and Inclusion. This is a 12-month position and the appointment percentage is negotiable, between half-time (20 hrs/week) and full-time (40 hrs/week).

The postdoctoral research fellow will work under the supervision of the ADVANCE Program Director, Dr. Jennifer Linderman, and Associate Directors, Dr. Isis Settles and Dr. Debbie Rivas-Drake on several projects related to faculty development and faculty diversity, equity, and inclusion. The primary responsibilities of the postdoctoral fellow will be to collaborate with Drs. Linderman, Settles, and Rivas-Drake to develop materials – presentations, online and written resources, and interactive exercises to support ADVANCE Program projects related to faculty development and diversity. The postdoctoral fellow will draw upon ADVANCE Program data and empirical literature for the content of the materials. Therefore, the successful applicant will have knowledge of the social science and higher education literature on faculty development (e.g., mentoring) and diversity, equity, and inclusion (e.g., evaluation bias, faculty composition) as well as experience interpreting quantitative and qualitative data. In addition, because the materials to be developed are intended for university faculty, administrators, and scholars, the successful applicant will have strong writing skills and the ability to clearly communicate information in written and visual forms to a broad audience.

U-M ADVANCE Program

The ADVANCE Program (https://advance.umich.edu/about/) focuses on four areas relevant to the success of a diverse and excellent faculty: recruitment, retention, climate, and leadership development. Together, these encompass not only multiple stages of faculty careers but also multiple mechanisms by which faculty diversity and excellence at U-M are enhanced.
